Yellow Jacket

Denison Senior High School

Denison, Texas
Volume Fifty-eight

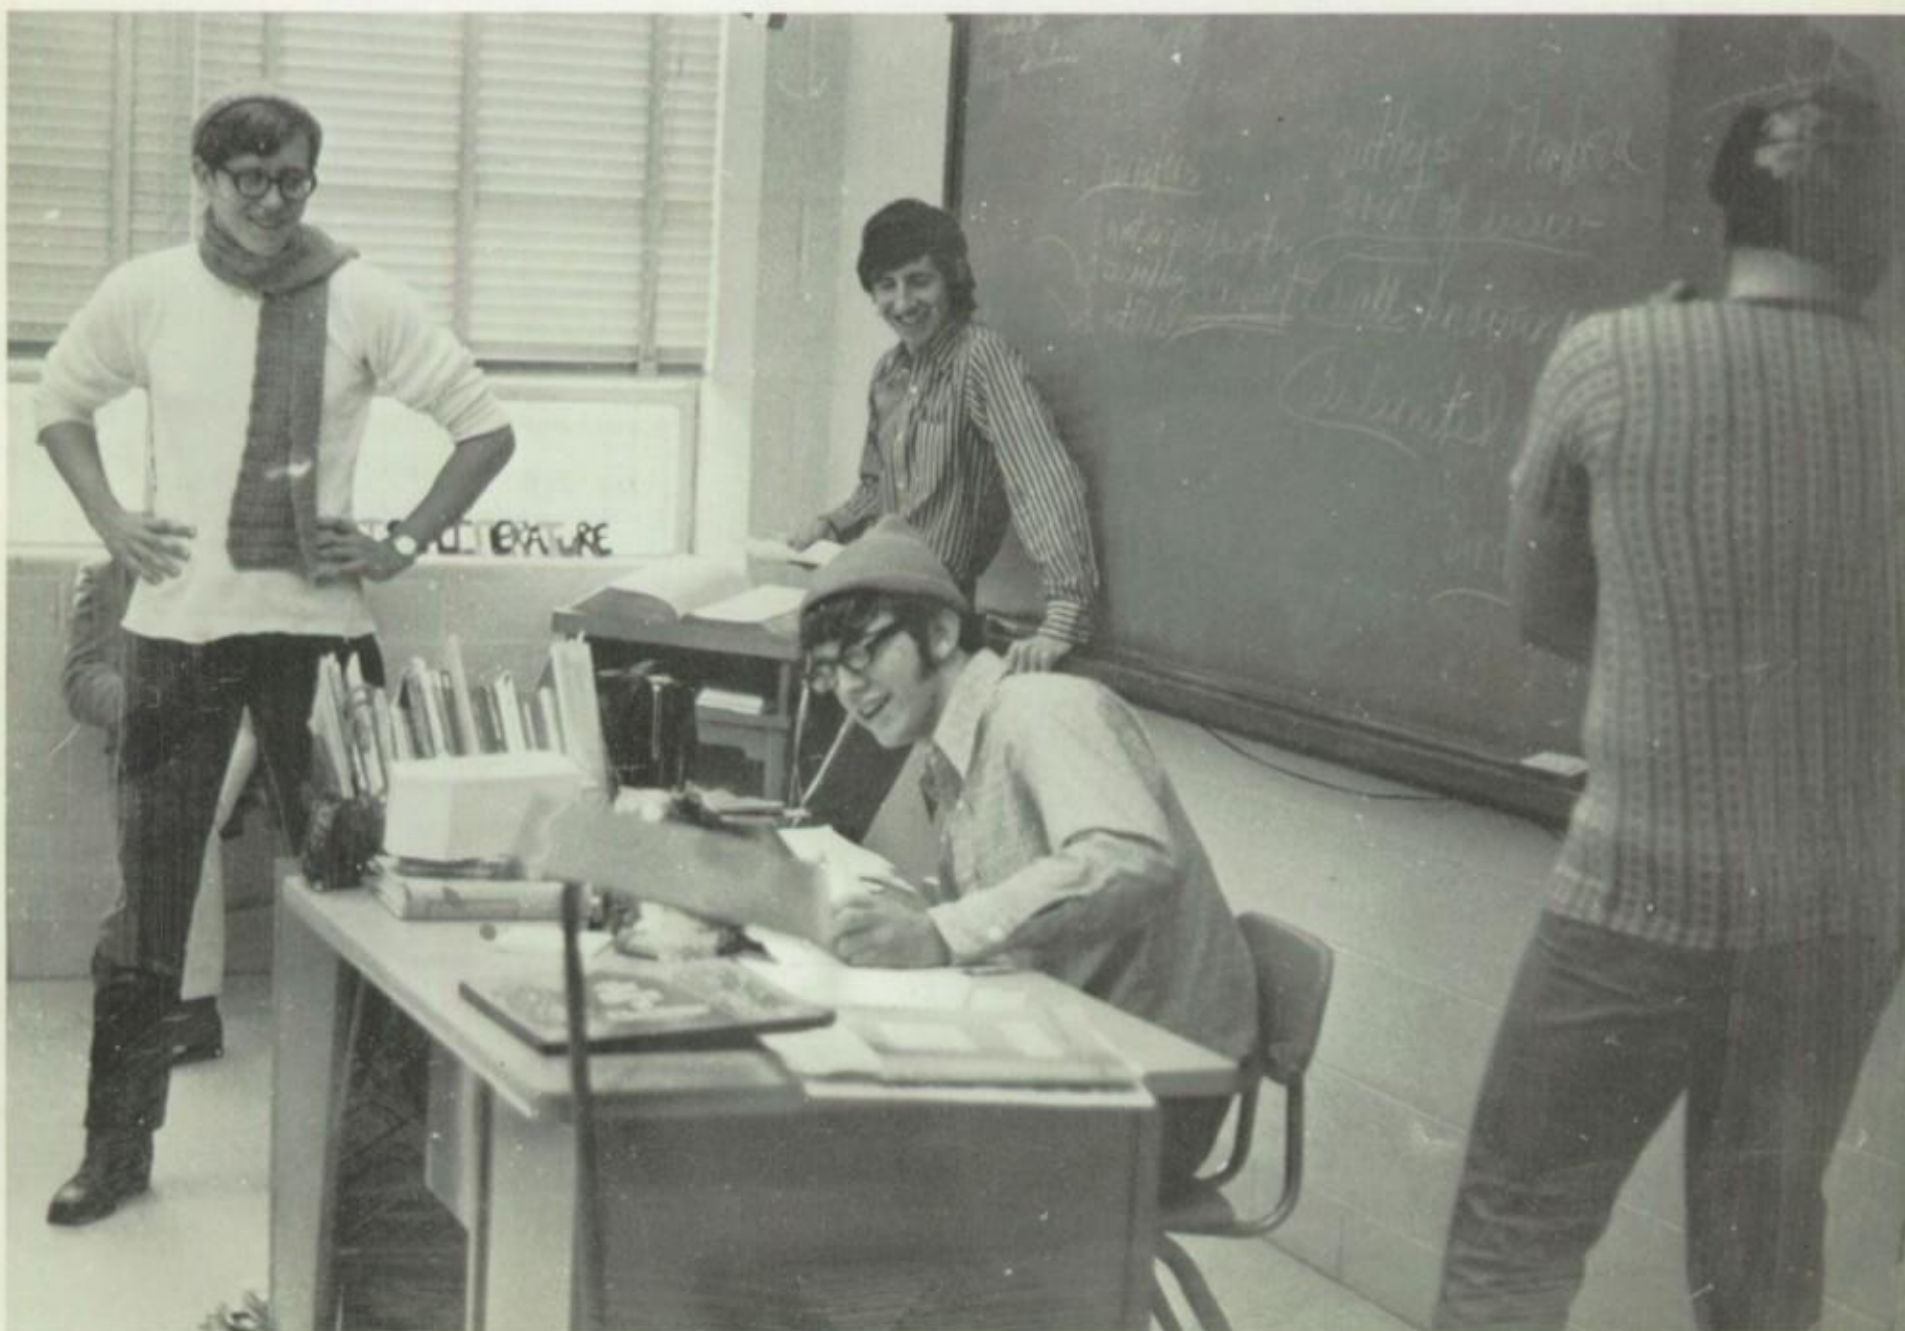

The times they are a changin' — and so is DHS. '72 was a time of change.

Beginning with the curriculum, students were offered wide choices in course selection.

Basic skills prepare us to meet the necessities of everyday life in our changing world. — Math, English, science and physical education. Psychology, in its second year, and a new course in sociology acquaint students with themselves and their society.

Advanced studies preparing us for college include foreign language, advanced math courses and, new this year, Biology II for those who will be our doctors and scientists in a few years.

Some courses offer practical instruction, possibly leading to immediate employment. Among these are typing, shorthand, drafting and metals.

Printing was added this year to acquaint students with yet another career opportunity.

'72 was indeed a time of change for those desiring vocational instruction and on-the-job training. In addition to the cosmetology, distributive education, industrial-cooperative training, vocational office education and vocational agriculture courses, students selected training in health occupations and home economics related occupations.

Students chose courses where creativity, talent and imagination are developed and refined — art, choral and band music, speech and drama, and photography.

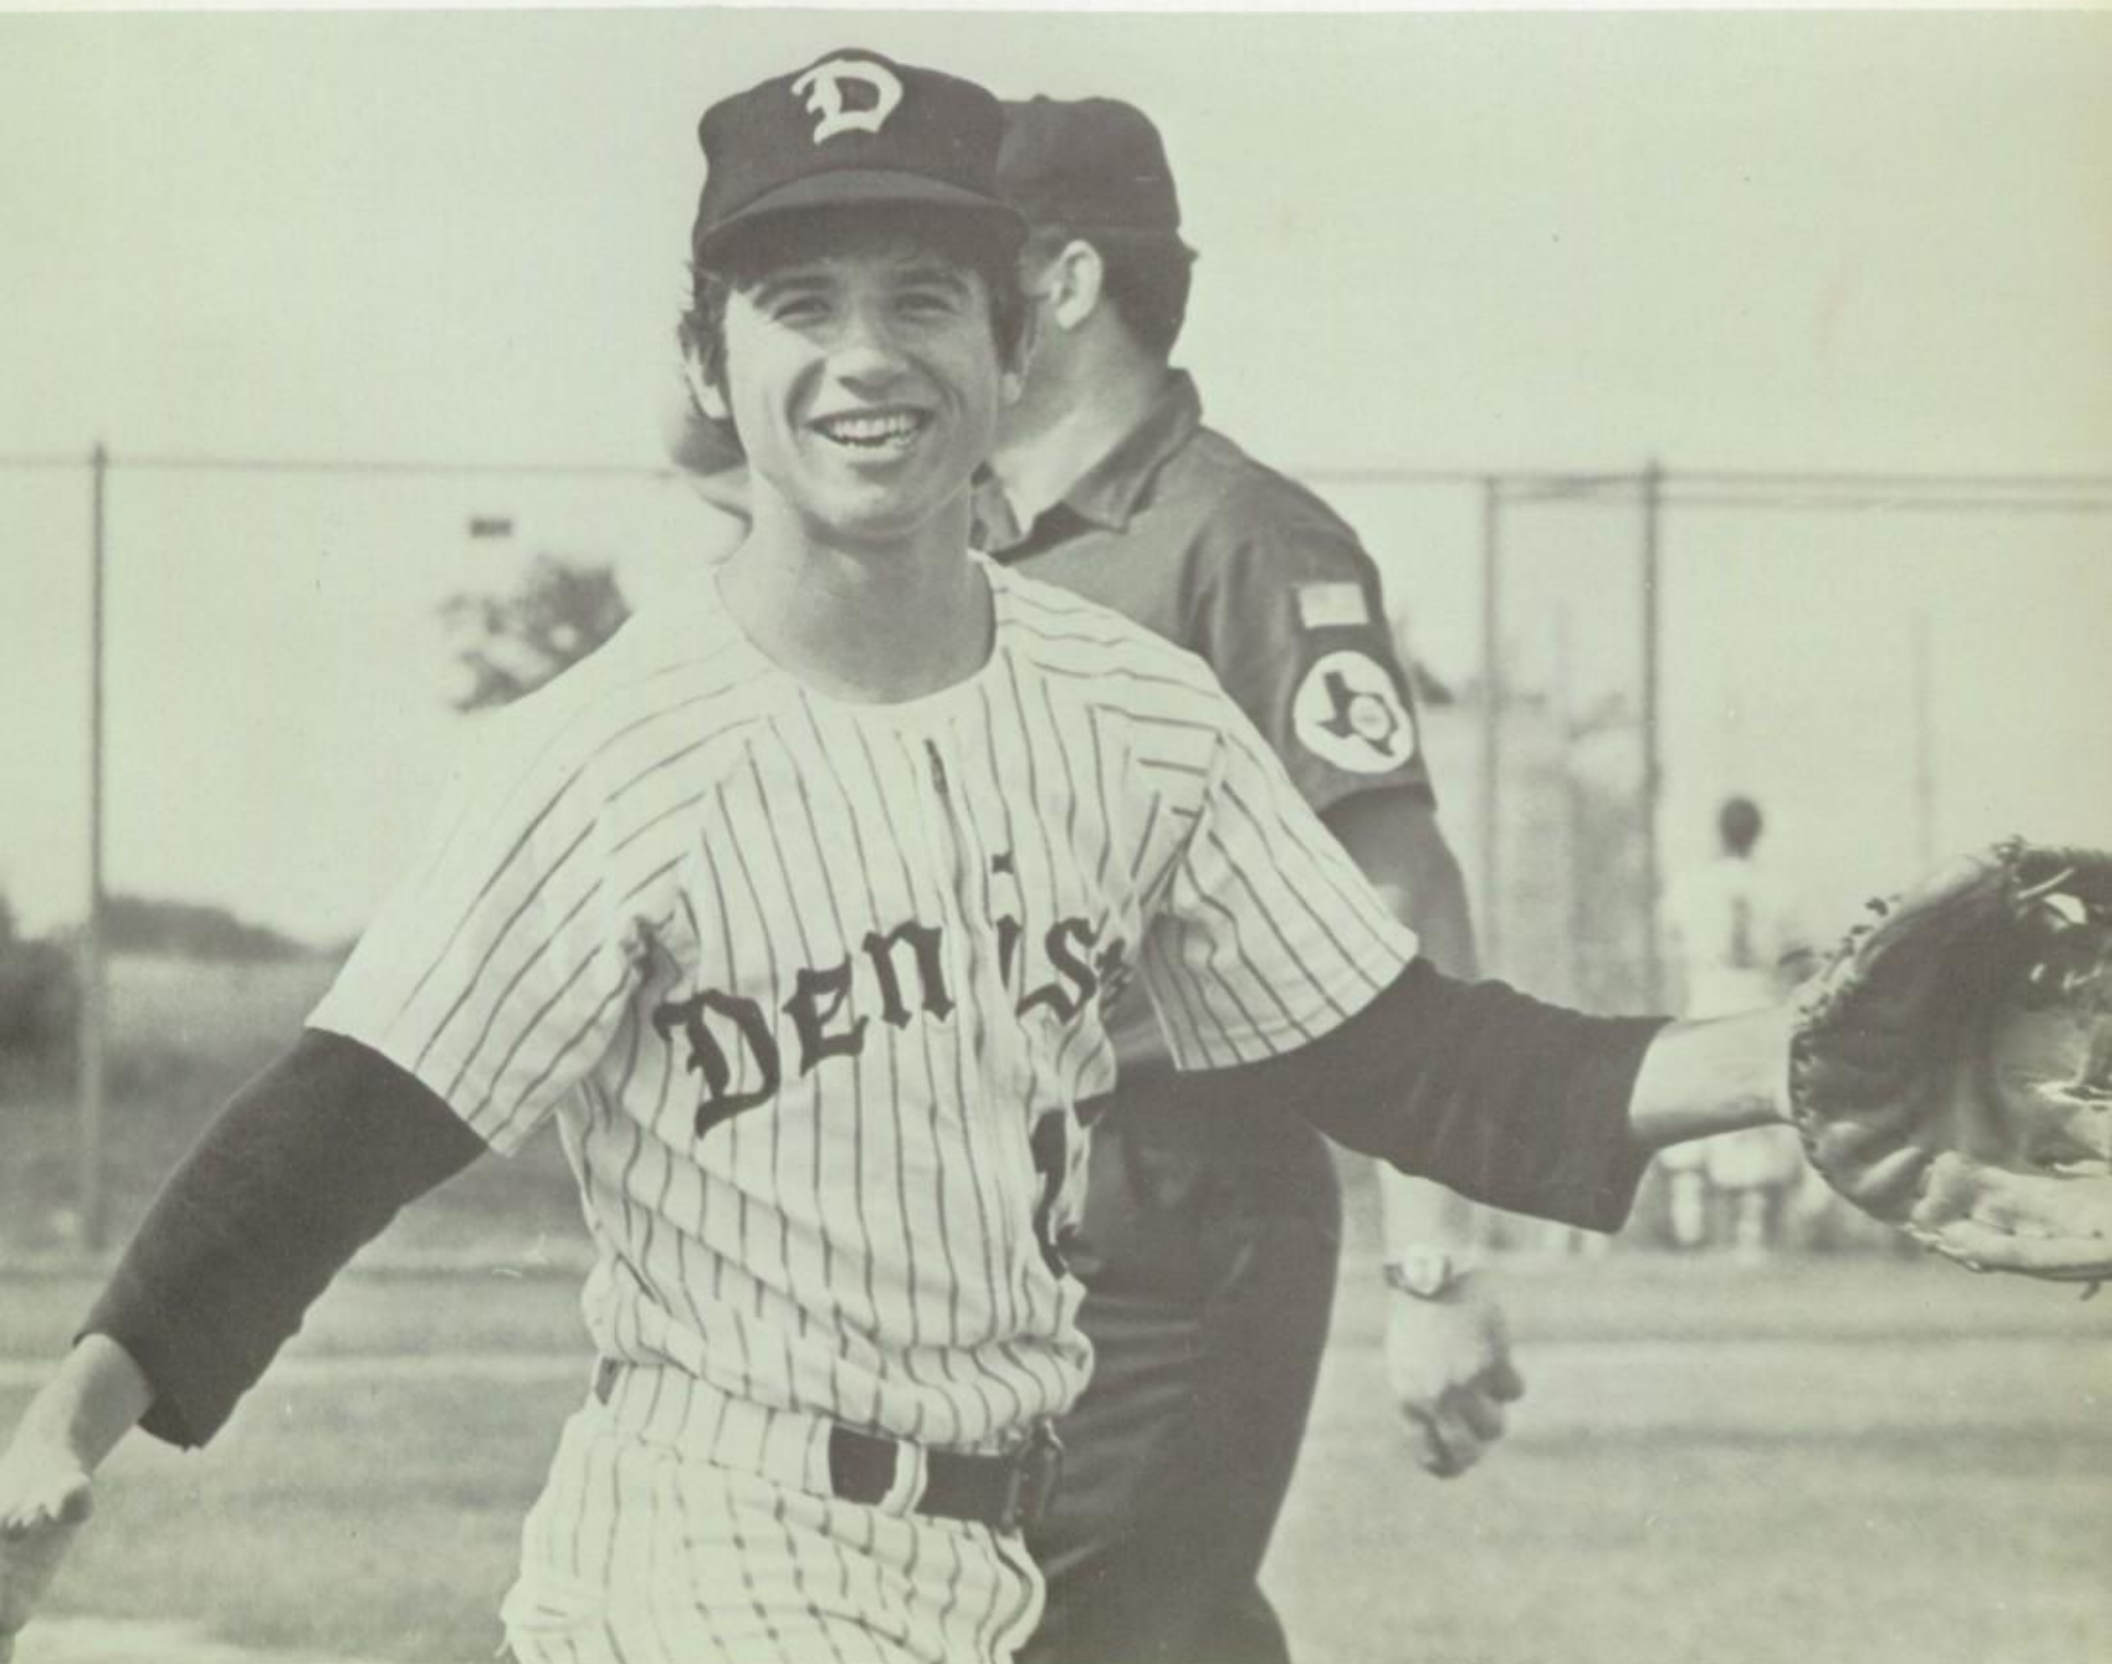

A flip of the coin opened an exciting football season that saw the Jackets giving 110% effort and gaining on each opponent. Alert tackles and constant pursuit plagued foes, while extra effort proved credit to a young Jacket team.

A much-improved basketball team provided plenty of excitement for winter sports fans.

A happy tennis quartet brought home three trophies. And a determined track team sent Mike Archer to the regional meet. Winter conditioning — the first sign of spring — kept athletes in prime physical condition.

A happy Jacket pictures the staunch Yellow Jacket spirit as baseballers captured the first district championship of '72 for DHS.

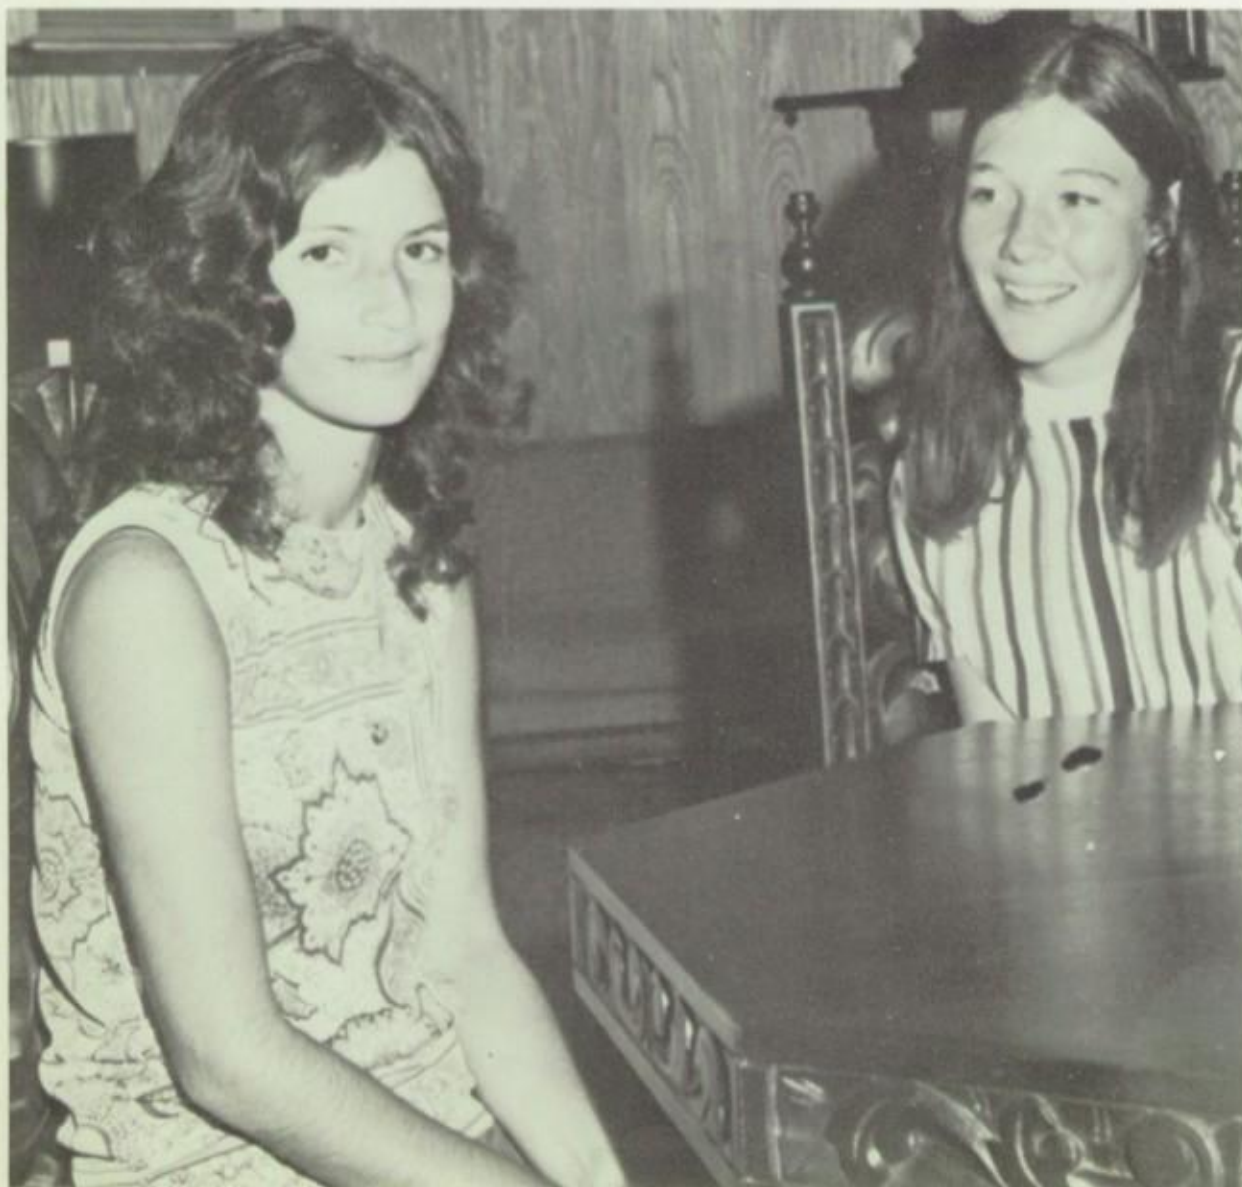

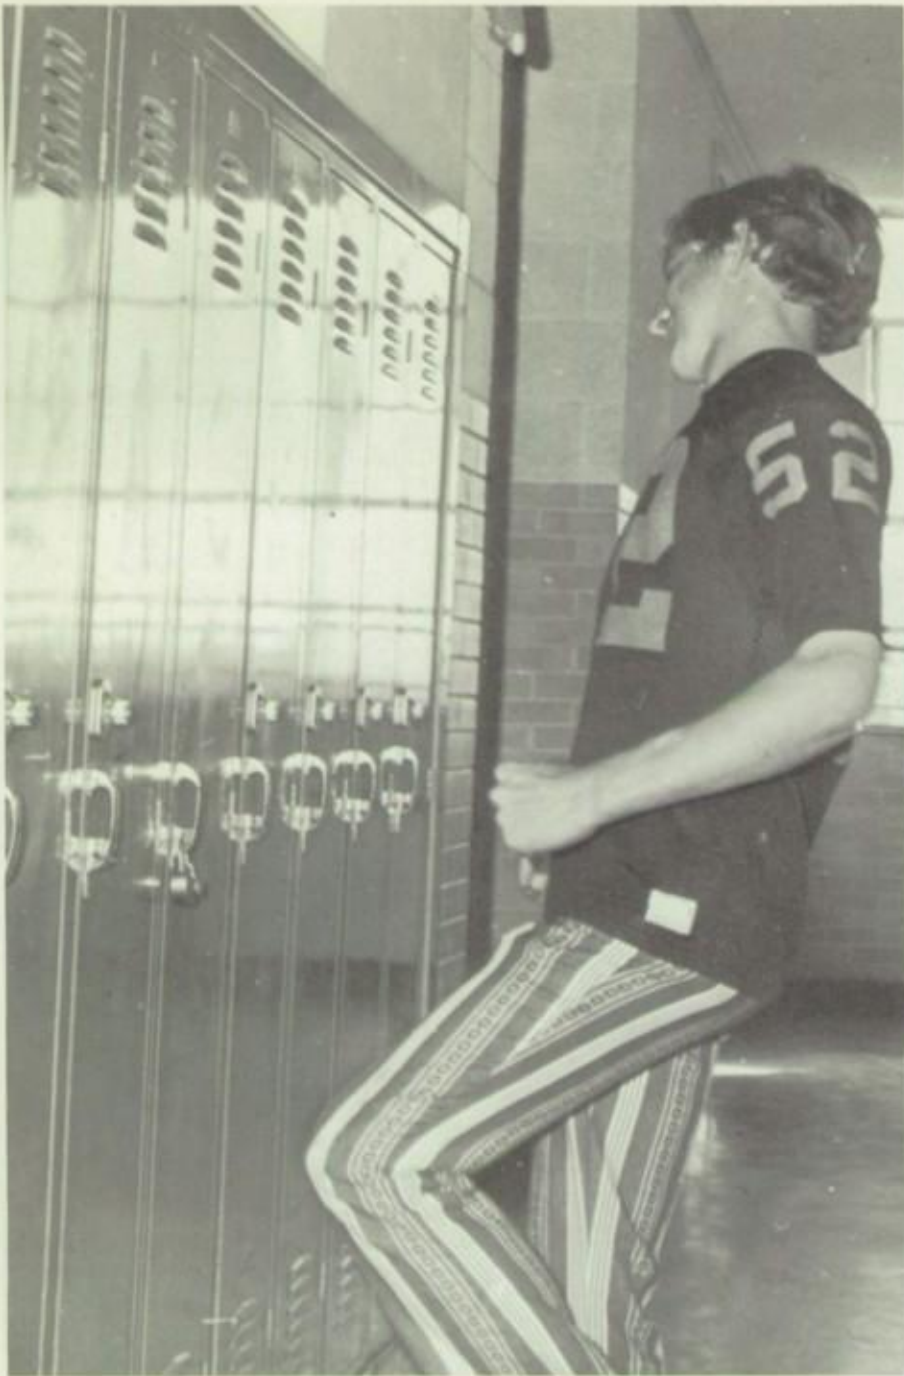

'72 was a time of change in student involvement — so many students were involved in such varied activities that the Yellow Jacket staff was hardpressed to cover them all.

DHS students were involved in helping others. VOE students gathered food for needy families. The Student Council robbed for the March of Dimes. Vocational students celebrated a banner year with their employer-employee banquet.

One of the bright spots in '72 was the winning smile of Gilda Leiva, exchange student from Venezuela. Gilda lived with her American family, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Eustice and Susan.

In a Time of Change — '72 found students seated in the lobby — available to direct and greet visitors. Students enjoyed the security of locks on their lockers. Other evidence that '72 was a Time of Change includes senior release, a change in the honor roll structure and grading period, home room and American Heritage programs. Students found a voice on the principal's and superintendent's advisory councils and the Student Council was instrumental in aiding in revising the dress code.

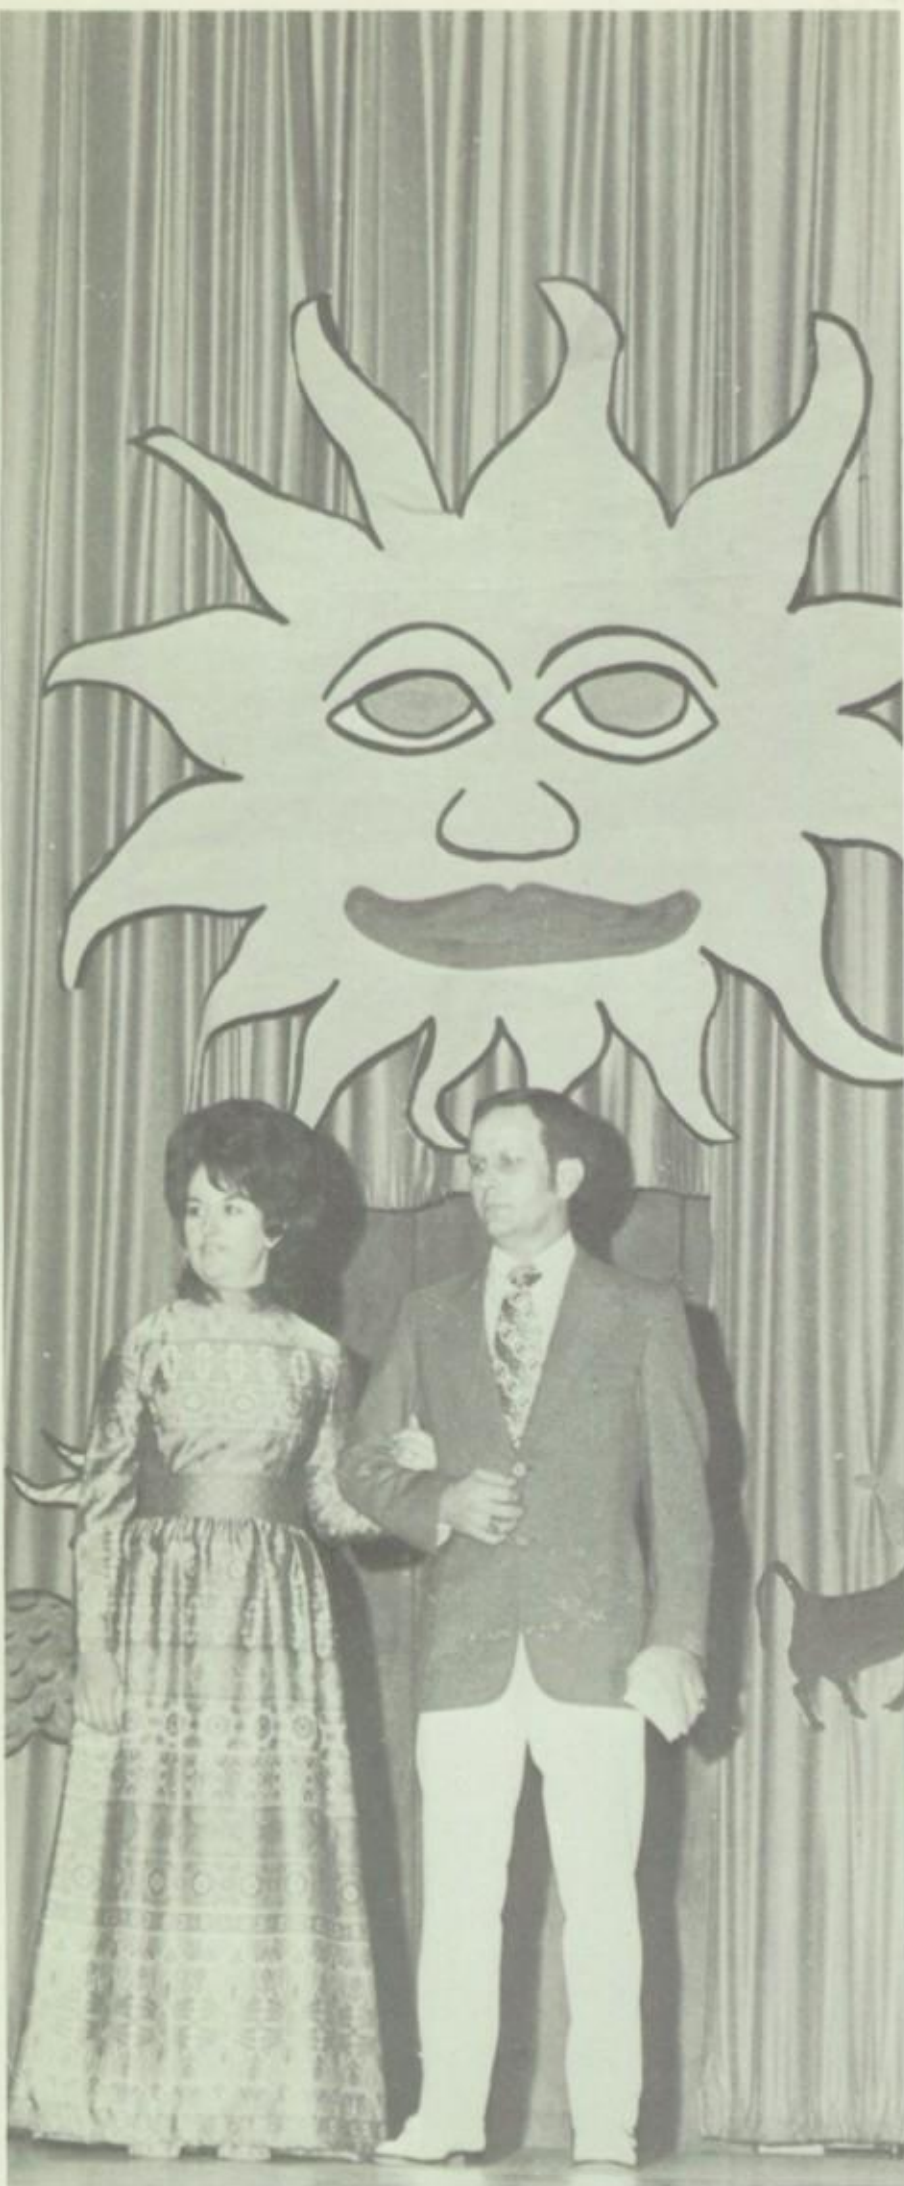

A New 'Chance' For '72

Exemplifying the theme '72 — A Time of Change the Yellow Jacket staff takes pride in dedicating the '72 Yellow Jacket to the person who, with thoughtful consideration through survey of attitudes of students and faculty and with the most positive and optimistic outlook for the success of each individual, has helped implement these changes. We the Yellow Jacket Annual Staff dedicate the '72 Yellow Jacket to Mr. Scott Gene Chance.

Working during their study hall periods, the student assistants not only aid the librarians but also profit from the work themselves by becoming more aware of the information available to them in the library.

Council Projects, Convention Highlight '72

One of the main projects for this year's Student Council is the buying and installation of a bulletin board which contains a weekly activities schedule for DHS.

VALEDICTORY ADDRESS

The motto of the graduating class of 1972 is: "Not merely to exist, but to amount to something in life." In the eyes of most people, when you amount to something, you are counted a success. Success and achieving personal goals are one and the same.

Each of the seniors here tonight has reached one of his goals by completing a high school education. Among these 365 graduates there are probably 365 different goals for success after high school.

Some may have chosen a particular individual in the community or elsewhere as a model. To follow a pattern similar to what this person has done would insure success. To a few, wealth may be the distinguishing characteristic of a successful person. Regardless of education, occupation, and other accomplishments, the earning of money would be the dominating thought for these individuals. Others may want to increase their knowledge through continued study. To these people, success begins with a college degree. Another group will seek a simpler life with less prominence and more emphasis on personal satisfactions. Serving humanity; always reaching to help others; these are the requirements for this type of success.

All of these goals have merit. Whether each of us achieves our own ideal of success will depend on many factors. There have always been problems and obstacles to overcome, and our generation may have even greater ones. Sometimes these obstacles may frighten us and cause us to enlarge them beyond their actual size. We can defeat this fear by thinking objectively and erasing negative attitudes.

One can not succeed without taking positive action. We must try to participate and be a useful part of our world. One of the most important ways to take action is by voting. We can now make use of this privilege to express our opinions sooner than any other generation before. We must remember our obligations and responsibilities to our community and country. It is our duty to keep informed and take a genuine concern in the activities of our city, state and nation. Our roles as useful citizens should not be forgotten in the struggle to attain our personal aims.

In striving to accomplish our various ideals of success, we must never forget that our motto says to succeed, yes, but to succeed in addition to living. We must live with our neighbors and remember their privilege to seek their goals and not run over them merely to realize our own ambitions.

We are indebted to our parents, teachers, administrators and community leaders for giving us the opportunity to obtain the basic educational background to succeed in life. Yet the work of amounting to something is left to each of us. If we can set useful and meaningful goals, think positively, work actively, and still maintain a concern for our fellowman, then there is every reason to believe that most of us will be able not only to exist, but to be a success in our own right. This is an important thing, as in the words of Waldo Emerson: "We respect ourselves more if we have succeeded."

BENJAMIN WILLIS, Valedictorian
Senior Class of 1972

SALUTATORY ADDRESS

The members of the class of 1972 are standing at a high point in their lives; a point where we can stop briefly and consider what we have been through and where we can look ahead with anticipation to the life that we have been preparing for. Tonight has another meaning also. This is the stepping off point. The point where we can be responsible for ourselves, where we can lessen our dependence upon others, and where we will have the freedom that we have always desired.

Let us look back for a few moments into the past twelve years. For some of us these have been enjoyable years, for others, hard years, and for some, exciting, pleasing, and dramatic years. It has been a time for testing and discovering ourselves, a time of preparation for the future, and most of all, a time for building a foundation upon which we can base our lives.

The building of this foundation has been the most important idea behind us. It has been the goal of all those who helped us: our parents, our teachers, the administrators, even the individual citizens of this community. Now, as I look over this class I know that their efforts have not been in vain and that we are pointed in the proper direction and off on the right foot.

Our lives are ours to do with as we please and it is our responsibility to make them worthwhile and meaningful. Now is the time for us to put to use the ideas and knowledge that we have acquired. We must resolve to do our best.

To turn fine learning into great living is not easy. Each of us should examine himself. What am I best prepared for? How can I do the most for myself and others? What path is best suited for my needs? We should answer these and many other questions and then apply ourselves diligently to the accomplishment of the goals we have set.

Remember, though, that life should be our most valuable possession and living, really living, should be our highest goal. Each of us needs to understand himself, accept himself, apply himself, and then be happy with himself. So then let us live our lives to the fullest, grasping life firmly and receiving all that it has to offer, not fearing what we face, but accepting everything as it comes and then using it to better ourselves and our communities.

Do not be afraid to dedicate yourself to something that goes beyond your own self for this is what makes men great. Let us also not forget the trying times we have had for they too can offer much to our personal growth. Remember those who have helped us. Do not fail to show appreciation for all they have done. Remember also your duty toward society. This year we have been given a greater voice and consequently a greater responsibility in the affairs of government. Let us then exercise this voice, but let us do it as judiciously and as expediently as possible being careful not to over react or overlook any factors.

A sure method then of attaining the fulfillment of a complete life is to maintain ourselves, to tolerate others, to show concern where concern is due, and to remember that what we do should be satisfying to both ourselves and others.

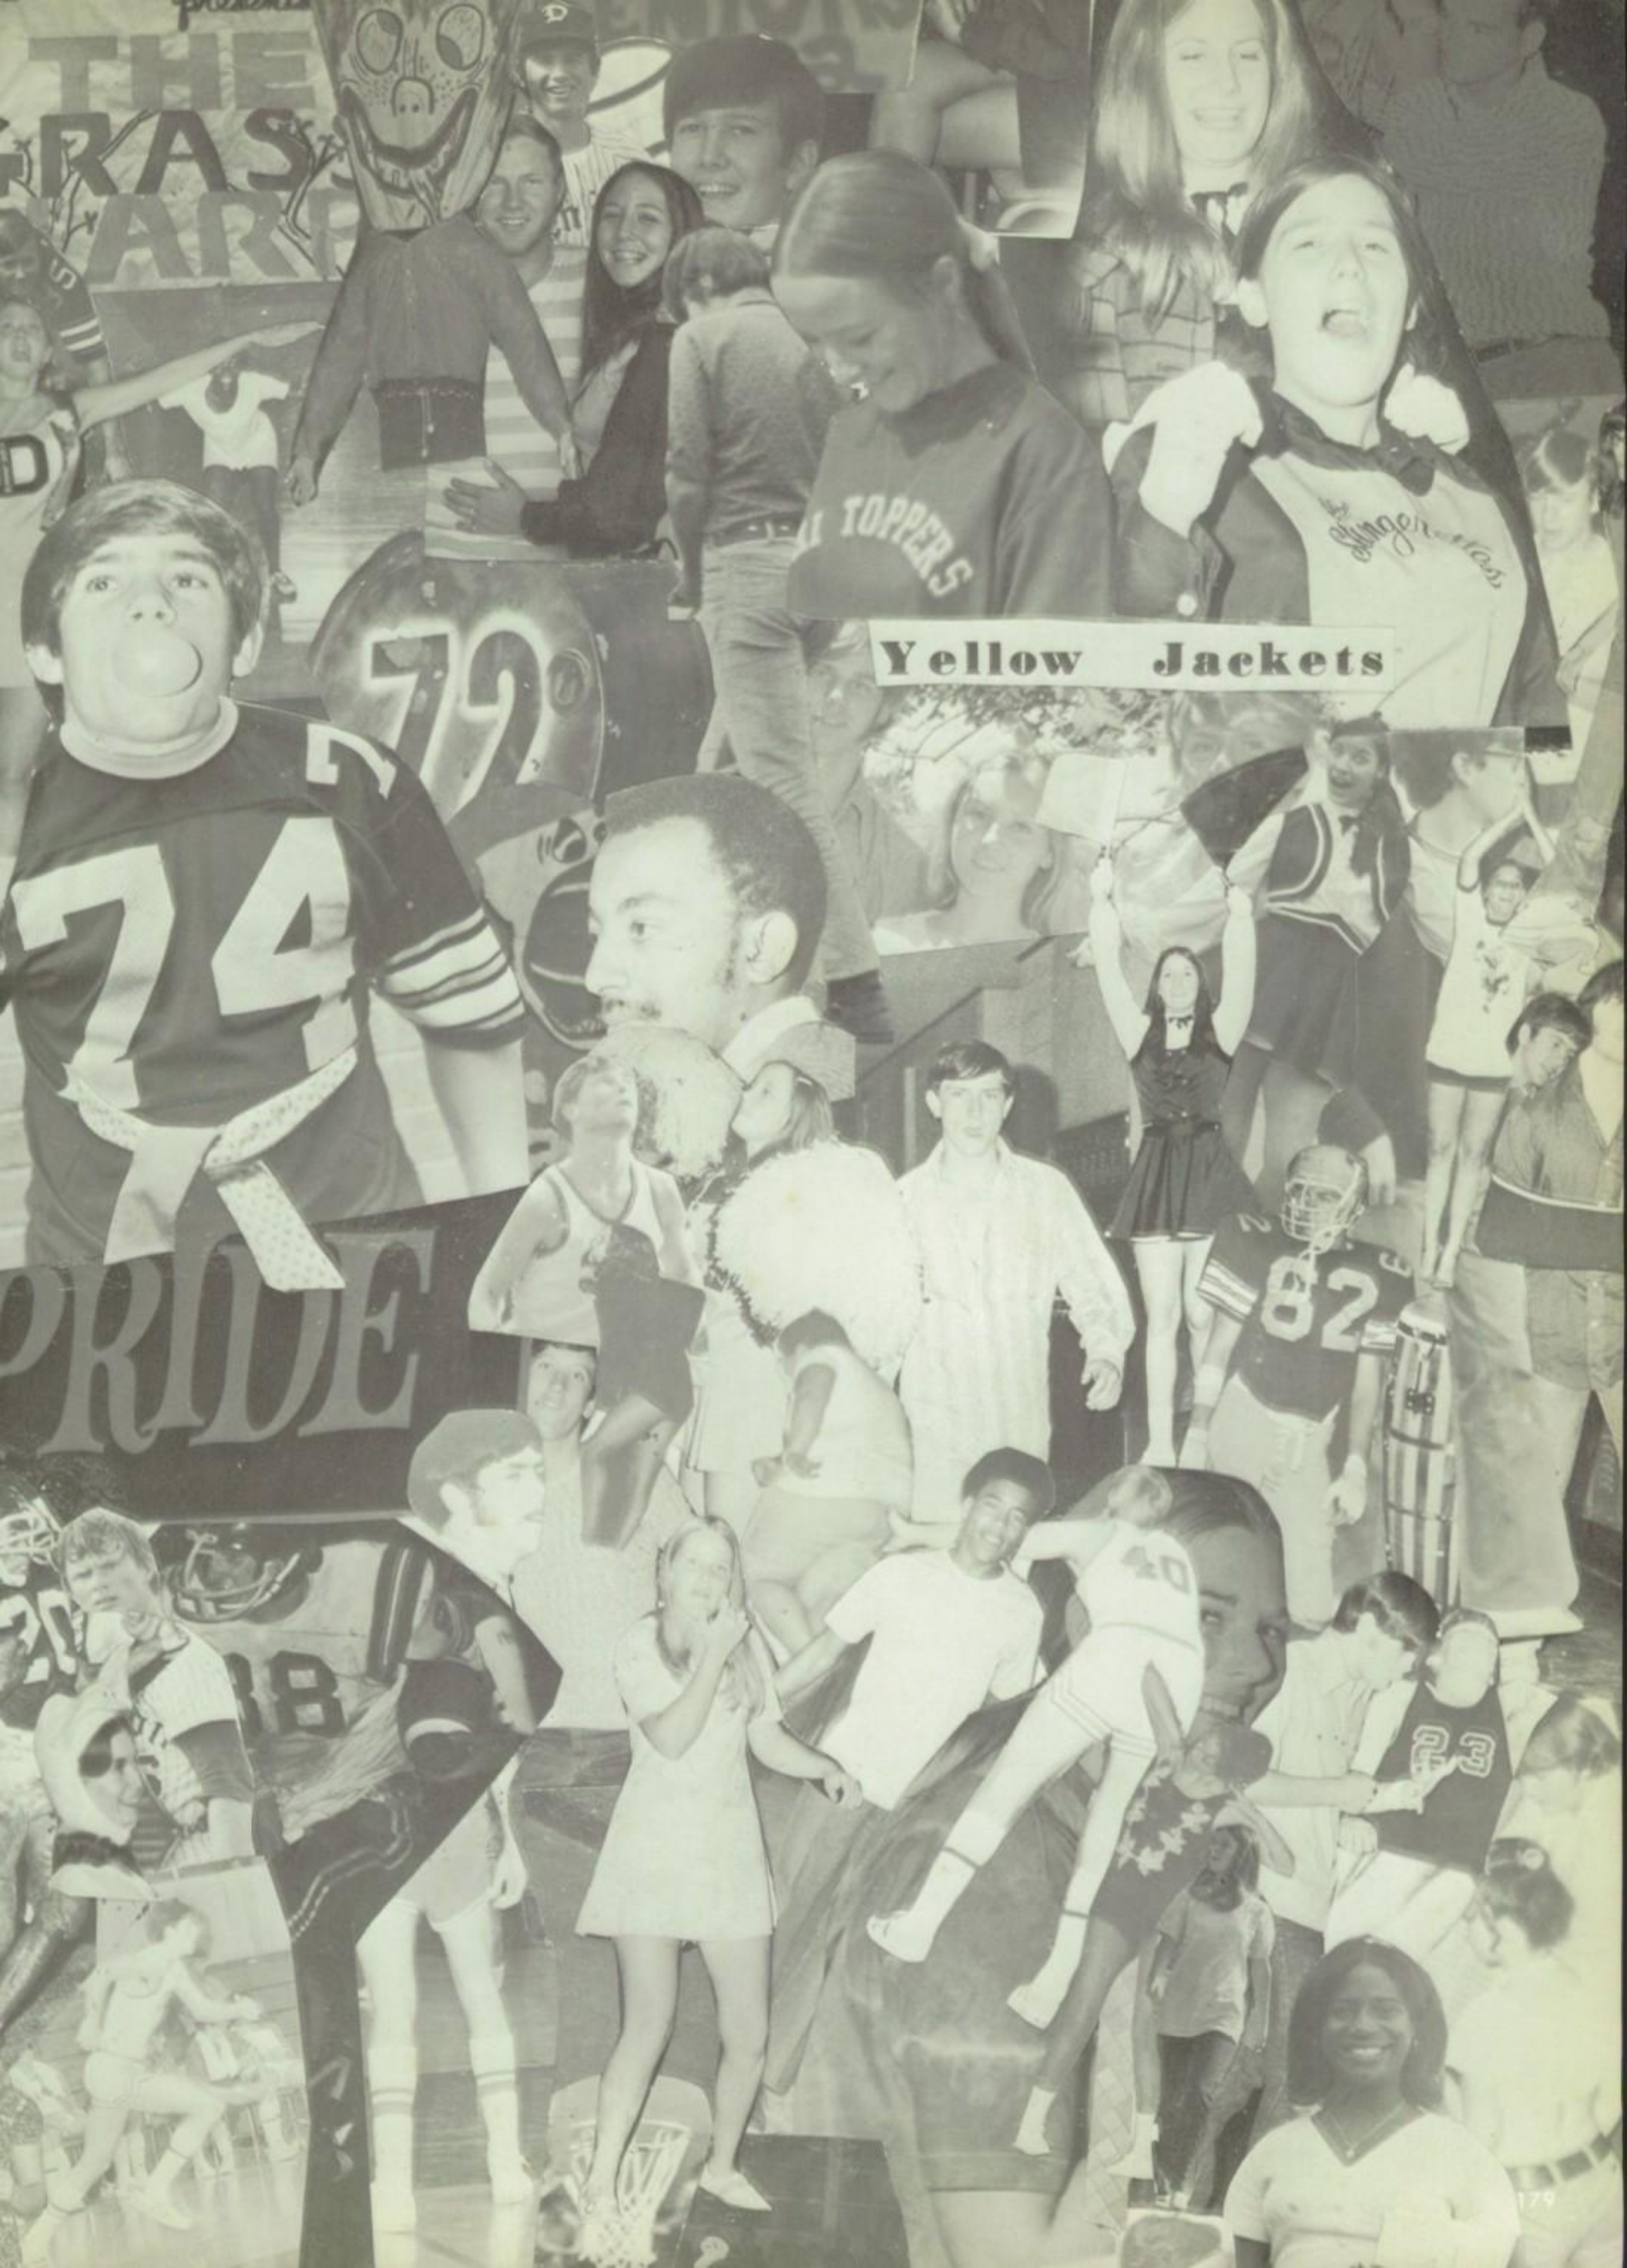

Although each of us has a separate goal, we should unite in our attempt to make the most of our lives, to live them to the fullest and then for each of us to be able to say with pride, "Yes, I have lived and I have been successful."

Graduation Brings Mixed Emotions

The Biology II class has quite a menagerie. "Gopher," right, rests after a hard day of observation. Other members of the "family" include rats, mice, fish, crayfish, frogs, and a turtle. Students of Mr. Terry's Biology II class can be seen entering the school before 8:00 to clean cages, aquariums, and generally "take care of their children."

English is the basis for American Education. If we could not speak the English language or write it well, where would the government and standard of living be? Science, Math, art, history, and other phases of education would not be possible without a language and an intelligent way of recording happenings and feelings. Many students took advantage of the films, records, bulletin boards, and tapes to enhance the study the significance and writing in English classes.

Study of history seems close to home as Denison prepares to celebrate its 100th anniversary with a spectacular Centennial festival. Students and faculty members, in addition to the usual course of study, helped research all aspects of the city's history and gather information for various publications to be presented during the celebration.

Premature preparation for business positions can be very helpful in today's society. The business department offers subjects such as Typing I, and II, shorthand. Bookkeeping is also offered. This year a new course was added to the other important business courses. Record-keeping is offered to any and all students who wish to take it. General Business is one of the most favorite. These secretarial programs are also training programs for the secretarial minded.

A person must know himself and how to express himself to make the world a better and happier place. The Fine Arts Department may provide many ways through which students may achieve this knowledge. Playing an instrument, creating a masterpiece of art, or just making music with the voice helps a person find this knowledge of himself. After a person discovers his own position in life he can then learn to share himself and his knowledge with others.

Vocational Studies Offer Career Start

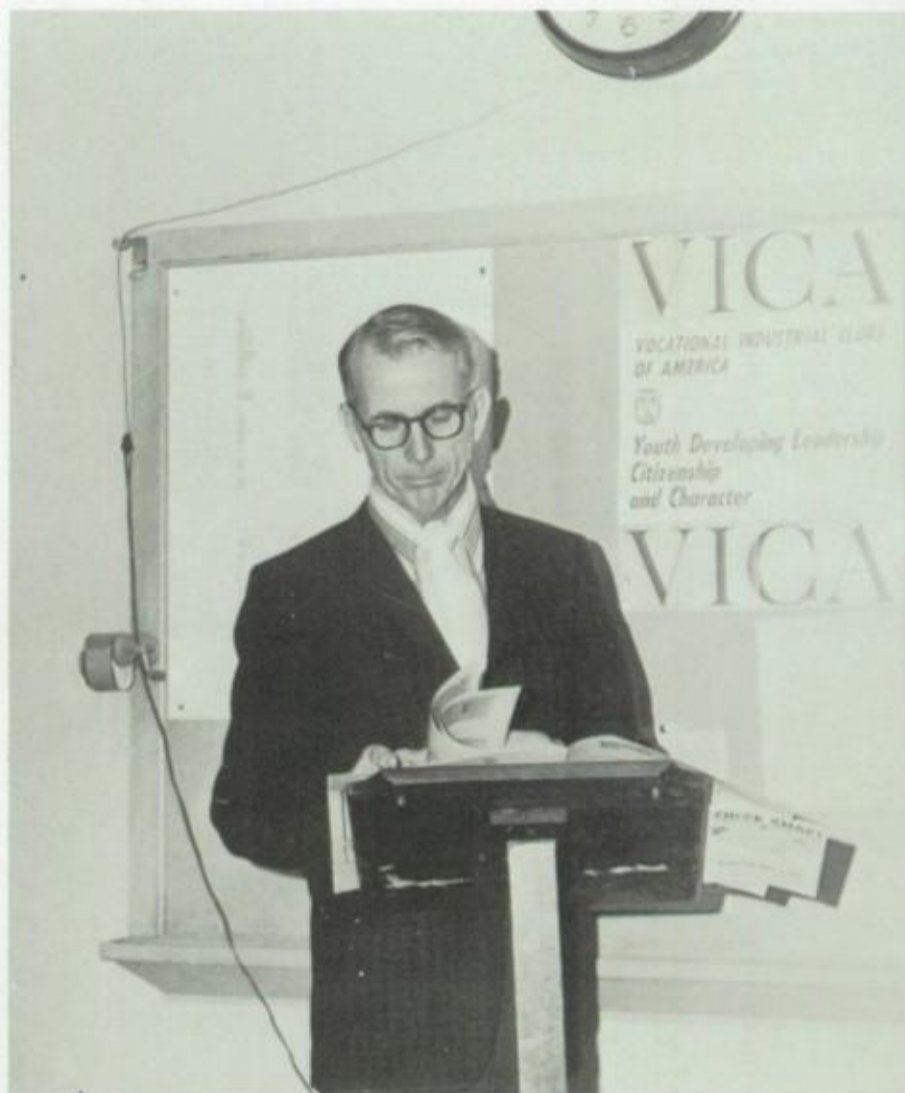

Mr. Charles Knight, B.B., M.S.
DEPARTMENT HEAD
Texas A&M
Seniors, Vocational Agriculture, FFA

Of all the departments, the Vocational-Industrial department has the most immediate and direct effect upon its students. Their classes prepare students for the jobs they will enter after high school. Knowledge of a trade was the goal of students of DHS who enrolled in the industrial cooperative training courses. The courses provided students with one hour of lecture on the job they chose to study. Later in the day they get on-the-job training by businessmen.

Retiring Teachers Leave Mark On Thousands

Mrs. Alma Gaddy

Mrs. Elizabeth Geer

Mrs. Madeline Anderson

Three teachers, who between them have served DHS for seventy-four years, are retiring this year. Mrs. Alma Gaddy has taught at DHS for 27 years. She presently teaches cosmetology. Mrs. Gaddy attended the University of Texas at Austin, Austin College and Texas A&M.

Mrs. Elizabeth Geer served 26 years teaching mathematics, homemaking and elementary schools. She attended Texas Women's University.

Mrs. Madeline Anderson, biology teacher and former department head, taught DHS students for 21 years. She attended Southwest Texas State, the University of Texas at Austin and East Texas State University.

The mark each of these teachers had left on students throughout the years is a tribute to their devotion to education. Congratulations on a job well done.

In Memory Sherry Mabary

Yesterday is Already a dream,
And tomorrow is only a vision,
But today, well-lived,
Makes every yesterday a dream
of happiness,
And every tomorrow
A vision of hope.

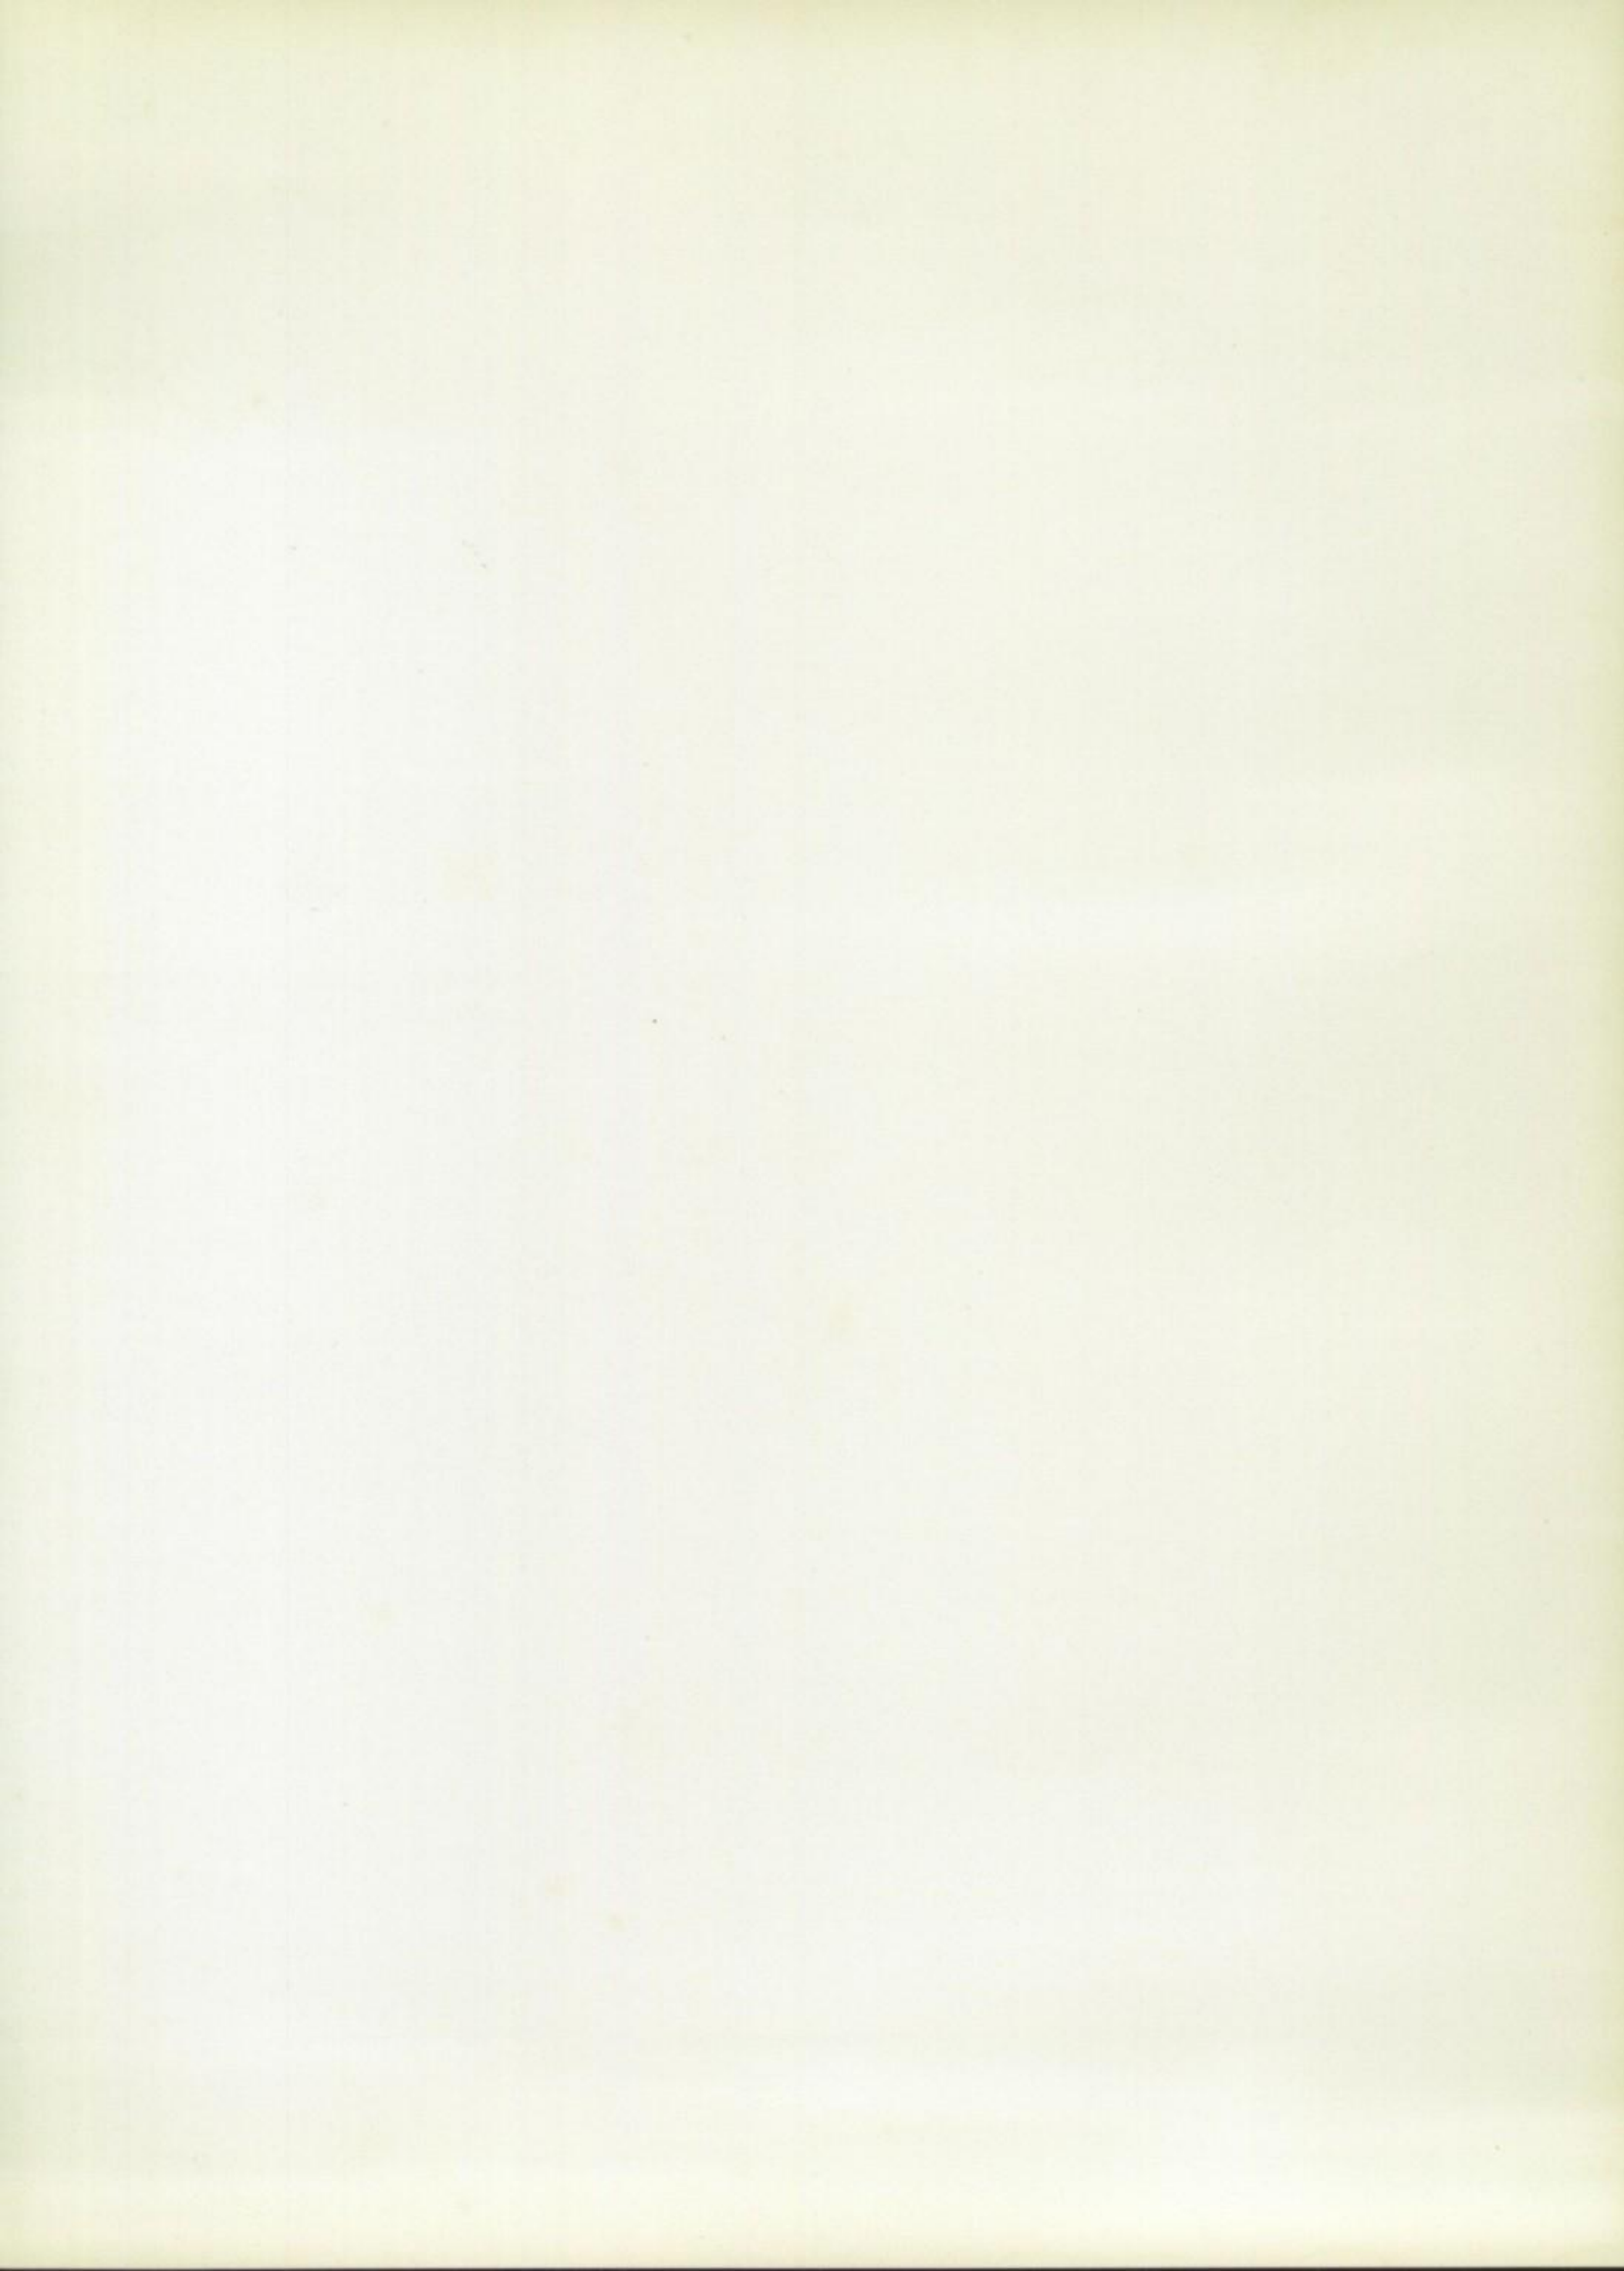

She was like the willow that stands
behind the hill
And calls no man her master but the day,
A little like a woman,
A whole lot like a child.
As children do, she changed her mind
And one day went away.
